Center for the Study of Multicultural Children's Literature Best Multicultural Books for 2014

by Dr. Claudette Shackelford McLinn

Looking for the best multicultural books published in 2014? Look no further.

(CSMCL) recognizes the Best Multicultural Books of 2014. Each year, a select diverse committee of experts identifies the best multicultural books. CSMCL's mission is to provide children, librarians, teachers, parents, educators, students, and experts in the field of children's literature access to multicultural children's books with high literary and artistic standards. This year's list was compiled by Dr. Claudette Shackelford McLinn, Dr. Naomi Caldwell, Dr. Sujin Huggins, Ana-Elba Pavon, Lessa Kanani'opua Pelayo-Lozada, and Elsa Marston. Take a look, share, and enjoy!

Dr. McLinn was the Children's Literature Council of Southern California Dorothy C. MacKenzie Award recipient this past October.

Arne Nixon Center Conference on Censorship

The Arne Nixon Center for the Study of Children's Literature in the Madden Library at Fresno State will conduct a conference on censorship April 10 -12, 2015. "Outlawed: The Naked Truth About Censored Literature for Young People" seeks to explore the many ways in which censorship affects reading choices for young people.

Learn how censorship presents itself in a variety of manners. While the most blatant banning garners the greatest attention, pre- and self-censorship occurs quietly and unnoticed at the selection level.

Discover how authors' writings are influenced by censorship. Whether it is to highlight themes that oppose it or to restrict controversy in order to avoid becoming targeted, authors must heavily weigh what is included or omitted in the creation of their work. Banning can either create a skyrocketing effect in sales or doom a work to anonymity.

Become enlightened about intellectual freedom as practiced in the United States and in other countries.

MEET OUR GUEST SPEAKERS: Joan E. Bertin, Matt de la Peña, Margarita Engle, Leonard Marcus, Michael Cart, Lesléa Newman, and Jacqueline Woodson.

We hope you will come and join us as we navigate the varied issues of censorship in children's and young adult literature.
